

1420 Arrive at the airport. Go to any of the automated kiosks and with your confirmation code (CMJLF8) select "Reprint boarding passes." Then proceed to the escalator to go to the C gates (from whence you came).

1430 Now you're upstairs in the security line. Sometimes it's 5 minutes, sometimes it's 45 minutes. If it looks like it's moving VERY VERY slowly, then tell the lady who asks you for boarding passes & IDs that you don't have IDs. She will then mark your pass as SSS (Special Security Selectee) and put you in a very short line that results in a pat down, a luggage check, and some questions. If they ask you why you don't have IDs smile and say "We do, but this line looked better :)" They are used to it. Honest answers are good.

1500 With luck you've made it through security by now. Board the tram to the C-gates.

1505 Your boarding pass will indicate which gate to go to. People are probably already standing in the little sections. Imagine that. Figure out if you want to do that or catch a bite. There is a Tequilaria place there which has an amazing plate of nachos and very large draft beers.

1535 Boarding will start for flight 882 - you should join in

General notes about gambling and stuff

While gambling (slots or tables) drinks are free. HOWEVER you will have to be playing for a bit before the gal comes over to ask you what you like; you can only single-fist a drink; refills are slow; you are expected to tip at least one dollar for every free drink.

If you want to drink like at a bar there are several inside the hotel and around the area. NOW if you are at a bar that has video games (poker, keno, blackjack) ask the bartender how much you need to play to get free drinks. You can sit there playing a $0.25 machine with 3 units per hand ($0.75) and be making money or losing nothing but getting free drinks. He will ring you up and there will be a receipt, but when you go to leave he will not charge you what is on that receipt. You should tip according to how well you did and what service you got.

The last time I had $100 in casino credit which I parlayed at a blackjack video game to $200 while collecting Grey-Goose Greyhounds. I tipped the bartender a $20 and we both were very happy.

All games are suckers' games, but keno is the worst.

Slot machines pay out more on the high-dollar ones. That helps them offset the little machines that barely pay out.
